

Langley Lawyer

Langley Lawyer - Our tax law group's services span the full range of taxation areas: provincial sales tax and goods and services tax, corporate and personal income tax, and international tax. Our clients include individuals, corporates, trusts, estates, and not-for-profit organizations like for instance charities. Our tax lawyers draw on various areas of our firm for quality advice in a variety of tax law transactions.

Our tax lawyers provide the following assistance to individual clients: assistance in minimizing taxes all through their lifetimes; help in maximizing their estates; assistance with using prudent tax savings and deferral opportunities. Lessening the tax burdens of beneficiaries is essential to clients and we offer help and recommendation in relation to estates and trusts.

We are able to help our several business clients with corporate reorganizations, public financings and mergers and acquisitions, both domestically and internationally. In tax planning, we advise our clients about the use of specialized entities and financial intermediaries. We assist local and foreign borrowers and lenders to structure their transactions in the most tax effective manner.

We have significant knowledge in commodity tax law. We focus on assisting organizations and individuals about various concerns of tax associated to goods and services tax and retail sales. We work closely together with clients involved in worldwide and local trade in identifying tax-saving opportunities. We even help with compliance issues.

Our tax group has assisted various clients during all stages of the tax review process, from the initial audit phase to the resolution of disputes in the most cost-effective and timely way.

Our group of tax law lawyers are fully devoted to the analysis of the constantly evolving developments in the tax law field. Our up-to-date knowledge allows us to advise regarding matters arising from amendments to tax legislation, government policies and judicial interpretation.

We help organizations to incorporate as charitable and non-profit organizations, and provide all the connected suggestion about governance issues, insurance concerns, strategic planning, risk management and fiduciary responsibilities.

Our litigators in tax law have various years of skill handling problems of tax disputes comprising income tax, retail sales tax, goods and services tax, as well as different other disputes under taxation statutes.