

Family Lawyer in Langley

Family Lawyer in Langley - From each jurisdiction, the adoption legislation would vary. You must talk to a skilled family law lawyer, whether or not you are considering an international or domestic adoption, in order to help ensure that the process goes well with successful outcome. Our office gives the knowledgeable, fearless and aggressive legal representation needed to assist you achieve your objective. We welcome complicated cases and would work hard to guarantee the best outcome possible.

The process of adoption is multi-stage process that is governed by law. This allows the adoption to go through a children's aid society, the court or private agencies.

Private Adoption

A private adoption can be handled by whichever agency which is licensed to provide private adoption services. The birth parents are able to pick the adoptive parents in private adoptions. If you know of an available child for adoption, you can call a private adoption licensee. Private adoptions can be stressful emotionally and because of the paperwork requirements involved. It is suggested that you acquire legal counsel for assistance.

Public Adoption

In instances where the birth parents wish for another family to adopt their child, a public adoption through a children's aid society may be performed. What's more, a public adoption can be done by the courts if it is determined that the original parents cannot deal with the task of raising a child. Public adoptions are difficult and need the help of an experienced lawyer. We know the nuances of the public adoption system. Our office will provide you with skilled representation.

International Adoption

For an international adoption, skilled legal representation is fairly vital, since this adoption process is the most complicated. It is vital that you are aware of the international law complexities, and that you stay within the immigration laws, adoption laws, and the laws of the home country of the child, which gives final adoption approval. International adoption agencies are approved to manage such cases. The procedure would involve a home study and letter of approval from Children and Youth Services.