

Criminal Law Firms Langley

Criminal Law Firms Langley - It is clearly essential that each one of our clients maintain their intellectual property and their rights behind it. Our aim is to quickly and efficiently handle the misappropriation and misuse of the intellectual property which belongs to our clients. We offer counsel in circumstances handling the leak of trade secrets, confidential information, copyrights, registered designs, trademarks and patents. As well, we also handle the anti-piracy issues, personality rights, defamation and commercial disputes using litigation.

Our company and lawyers are especially well-versed in patent problems, specifically within the fields of telecommunication, mechanical and pharmaceutical sectors. The various copyright violations from internet use, including music, software, artwork, and television rights that we would work through fast to be able to help you avoid further exploitation. Trademark and competition problems are usually handled utilizing litigation.

Our company's skill about intellectual property fused with the skills of our well-seasoned litigation lawyers makes for a formidable combination. Our clients could rely on us to represent them at all levels of the international tribunals along with Canadian courts.

Our firm has numerous highly educated solicitors, and trademark and patent agents, who work closely with our property litigators. As a firm, we have commercial knowledge in technology transactions. This ensures we have an additional set of skills that is useful should a case get settled previous to going to trial. The help which we offer our clients is time-efficient, creative, and above all, effective.

Litigation is usually not the only means to attain our clients' objectives. If there is an optional method which is more efficient and cost effective then we select that path. The main objective is to achieve our clients' objectives as painlessly and quickly as possible.