Langley Car Accident Lawyers - Our class action defense group is among the country's largest and most experienced. Our skill is varied, but we specialize in class action cases involving employment, competition, environment matters, pension, product liability, professional liability, and securities.

Our company is completely capable of defending our clients in trial or coming to a settlement early in the procedures by means of negotiation. We make use of a strategy that is efficient and cost effective. Because our counsel is comprised of lawyers from numerous jurisdictions, we are able to provide our clients experienced, helpful suggestion and a national approach with regards to defending multi-provincial class actions. With regards to dealing with cross-border litigation, we even make use of our "one team" approach. We have worked closely along with external and internal U.S. defense counsel to make a worldwide defense method.

In order to guarantee that our clients needs are best represented, we use a multidisciplinary plan to enable us to draw upon the knowledge offered by teams in banking, competition, corporate and commercial, intellectual property, labour and employment, pension and securities.
