

Copyright Lawyer Langley

Copyright Lawyer Langley - If there are not enough systems to decrease risks are not in place, the difficult web of worldwide laws and regulations governing competitive conduct in today's world, can leave companies facing a variety of corporate compliance problems. The various consequences could comprise hefty fines for alleged price fixing, and jail time for those people whose companies have violated antitrust laws. Lawsuits by private people, including class action lawsuits, can lead to settlements or damage awards totaling millions of dollars. Our firm provides business clients effective representation and proactive recommendation to assist them establish corporate compliance systems to maximize their ability to compete legally and effectively. Our competition/antitrust lawyers give professional counsel regarding complicated issues that can negatively impact a company's operations and ability to survive.

Our Competition/Antitrust lawyers work in all areas of competition/anti-trust, advertising and marketing law. Our lawyers are often asked to speak and write on competition law topics for legal, business and academic audiences. We have experience in mergers, price fixing investigations, packaging, product pricing, advertising, labeling and distribution issues. Our litigators have represented clients before the courts, the Competition Tribunal and the Canadian International Trade Tribunal. Our lawyers draw upon different members all over our office for skill in intellectual property, trade remedies, commercial and franchising problems associated with product distribution. We even help in the defence of criminal and quasi-criminal allegations.